Special Despatch to The New York Herald Bureau.

Washington. D. C., Jan. 10.

Opposition to the passage of the Johnson bill enforcing drastic restriction to-day continued to be a feature of the hearing on the measure now in progress before the Senate Immigration Committee.

It was opposed by former officials in the Immigration say of the hearing on the measure now in progress before the Senate Immigration of Committee.

It was opposed by former officials in the Immigration say of Committee.

It was opposed by former cofficials in the Immigration say of Committee.

It was opposed by former cofficials in the Immigration say of the Johnson bill and the Immigration service in Washington, and was fought by officials of the American Federation of Labor, that unrestricted in marked the Johnson bill and the Washington, and was fought by officials of the American Federation of Labor from cheap foreign in which for each go the Hover in the Johnson bill and the Washington of the Beart of the wash and door construction interests of the middle to the Committee.

It was opposed by former officials in the Immigration service in Washington, and was fought by officials of the American Federation of Labor, vigorency of the Johnson bill and the Washington, and was fought by officials of the American Federation of Labor from cheap foreign in which for middling industry, on the ground that it would increase the probable shortage of unsikilled labor.

Mr. Bennet especially called attention for cable despatches in THE NEW York light of the Connect and forbidden in his parts by the Connect of the Washington, and was fought by officials of the American Federation of Labor from cheap foreign in what formerly was the Turkish Empire of the Marked Cannel of the Cannel of t that it would increase the probable shortage of unskilled labor.

Mr. Bennet especially called attention to cable despatches in The New York Herald of a week ago showing how impossible it would be for unduly large numbers of Europeans to reach America because of the shortage in ocean transportation facilities. He emphasized also more recent articles in The New York Herald on the subject, particularly a news item showing that when the Alfonso XIII. a steamship from Spain, arrived at the port of New York there were only seven passengers choard and almost no cargo, and there was no Spanish emigration whatever.

Says Fears Are Baseless.

"There are a few newspapers like THE NEW YORK HERALD," said Mr. Ben-net, "that seem to want the facts re-garding the immigration situation, and garding the immigration situation, and print them when they find them. If more newspapers would do that we would not have this wave of systeria. Discussing his objections to the Johnson bill Mr. Bennet said that most of the arguments that had been made in its favor in the House report were based "not upon proof, but on assertions" that they afforded no sound basis for action by Congress.

"The suggested prohibition of foreign

"The suggested prohibition of foreign immigration for one year would accompilsh nothing of a constructive nature." he continued. "It would simply keep out a million people for a year. Our present shortage of unskilled labor would be increased, our farmers still would be faced with their problem of lack of labor and high-cost of production."

Mr. Bennet denied assertions that the class of immigrants now coming in was below the average in mentality, in physique or in their opinions as to our form of government. He insisted that what we needed was not so much more law as more law enforcement. He recommended a cooperative system between the States and the Federal Governent of "gelective distribution of immigrants," in accordance with the desires of the immigrants themselves who want work, in accordance with the desires of the immigrants themselves who want work, and the needs of the country, which wants labor.

He denied also that immigration was a menace to large cities and said the last census reports show the larger part of increased foreign population has gone to cities of from 25,000 to 100,000 population, rather than into such centres as New York, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Dakotan Says Men Needed.

Walter W. Liggitt, Deputy Labor Commissioner of North Dakota, told Commissioner of North Dakota, told the committee there were about 20,000, one acres of land in his State that would not be farmed next year, that would be used if there were labor enough to do it. He urged the calling of a conference of labor, immigration and agricultural officials of States and the Federal Government to obtain complete information properly classified showing labor needs, as the basis for a system of selective distribution of alien labor. He suggested also that this in-

New York Herald Bureau, | Washington, D. C., Jan. 10. Knights of Columbus Vote

New York Herald Bureau. Washington, D. C. Jan. 10. THE elevator installed recently abourd the Presidential yacht Mayflower is to be torn out, it developed to-day, while the vessel is undergoing repairs needed because of the recent fire.

The elevator was installed for President Wilson on the theory that he would use the Mayflower during his illness. He did not, however, and now that the vessel is in dry dock for repairs the navy authorities believe it would be well to remove the elevator. It makes the yacht unseaworthy, they believe.

It cost $16,000 to place the elevator in the yacht and it will cost $16,000 to take it out.

DERRY Conn., Jan. 10.—Mock marriages, often held when a bride-elect is being "showered" by friends, were denounced and forbidden in his parish by the Rev. Father R. F. Fitzgerald of St. Mary's Church in sermons yesterday, Such ceremonies, the priest said, are sacrilegious. Father Fitzgerald is of the diocesan board of examiners of the clergy.
